State of Alabama, County of Blount

On this 18th day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty two personally appeared in open court before Marston Mead the Judge of the Court of Blount County, now setting Edward Doyle, a resident in the County of Blount and State of Alabama aged Seventy four years who being duly sworn according to Law doth on his oath make the following Declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the Act of Congress passed June the 7th 1832—That he entered the Service under the following named officers and Served as herein stated. That in the month of February or March in the year 1779 he enrolled himself as a volunteer in the Company of Capt. Levi Casy (sic, Casey) under the command of Col. James Williams of the South Carolina militia and at the time of his enrolment resided in ninety six District in the State of South Carolina. Robert Duging (sic, Dugan) my Lieutenant, Major Taylor was our adjutant & from our place of rendezvous at Camp Branch 14 or fifteen miles from 96 Court House we marched to Liberty Hill on the approach side of the Savannah River from Augusta and remained there about two months. Col. Pickens was likewise there with a part of his Regiment. Gen. Williamson was our Brigadier General & had the command of all the Troops—there was only one company [of] Regular Troops Stationed there. Capt. Moore of the Artillery & Lieutenant Prince Belonged to said Artillery Company. Col. Leonard Marberry of the Continental line & commander of the Light Horse was occasionally with us but mostly out with Scouting party about one half of Col. Williams' Militia were mounted & called Mounted Militia. Col. Pickens likewise commanded Mounted Militia whilst we were stationed opposite Augusta. The British commanded by Col. Campbell were in Augusta & Gen. Prevost's Army in Savannah.

& From thence Capt. Levi Casey and about six of his men myself included attached ourselves to Col. Pickens' Regiment and marched under the command of Col. Pickens in pursuit of the Tories—and on this expedition there was about three hundred mounted militia & Col. Pickens attacked & defeated a party of Tories at Kettle Creek in Georgia. The Battle lasted about one hour. The said Edward Doyle was in said Battle. The Tories were all mounted and it was said there were about five or six hundred of them, we killed several of them and took about two hundred prisoners and marched them to our encampment opposite Augusta at Liberty Hill & from thence Col. Williams' regiment guarded them to the Jail at ninety six and the Tories remained in jail & were guarded until a court was convened & were tried for their lives. Many of them were convicted, but few of them were executed. One by the name of Aquilla Hall was executed and after the trial of the Tories, this deponent was discharged & went home & the Discharge lost or destroyed. In this tour he served three months. And the said Edward Doyle again volunteered after being at home only about two weeks. [He] enrolled himself as a volunteer in the militia of South Carolina in the company of Capt. Isaac Morgan in the Regiment of Col. Liles under Brigadier Gen. Williamson & marched from home (I think some time in April or May) to join Genl. Lincoln's Army and marched down the country towards Charlestown and joined Genl. Lincoln's Army a few miles above Bacon's Bridge and all marched from thence & encamped several days at Bacon's Bridge and whilst there the British Cavalry attacked our Picket Guard some time after Sun down but were repulsed. Our Light Horse then paraded to meet them & crossed the Bridge & pursued some distance but did not overtake the British—then marched and was engaged in the Battle at Stono Ferry under Gen. Lincoln. Some time in the Summer of 1779—in this Battle Lieutenant Prince of the Artillery this deponent was informed was mortally wounded in bringing of his artillery—another officer Col. Roberts was killed & buried with the Heroes of War about five miles from the Battleground; and remained some time after the Battle and Served on this campaign three months and discharged & went home to ninety six district; on this tour he was mounted and was about seven days with Genl. Pulaski & his cavalry on scouting parties at one time about five miles from our encampment at Bacon's Bridge—He was with County Pulaski's Cavalry--& said Edward Doyle & one Reuben Guilders. Gen. Pulaski's spies were marching on about three hundred yards in front of the Cavalry & saw about twenty five of the British Cavalry—before whom trotted a small dog—Guilders remained by secreting himself in the woods & told me to return to Gen. Pulaski. I informed him as soon as I could ride back. He in front with twelve of his Cavalry—immediately pushed on & met the Enemy—who retreated; a skirmish ensued. Our cavalry all came up. Count Pulaski gave way until our main body of cavalry joined them & then the whole of the British and Tories gave way—we killed & wounded eight or ten of the Enemy; took no prisoners—& I do not recollect that we had a single man killed or wounded.

The said Edward Doyle again enrolled himself as a volunteer in Capt. Hayes' Company of the South Carolina militia under Major Gillum (sic, Gillam) commanded by Gen. Williamson a Scotchman—in company with Col. Pickens and marched with about two hundred men against the Cherokee Indians—and destroyed about seventeen or eighteen Towns on Hitower & the Hiwassee Rivers & their tributaries. And destroyed their corn and at one Town called the Big Shoemake Town there was near two hundred acres of corn—This expedition was in the latter part of the Summer of the same year of the Stono Expedition and the Battle at Stono Ferry—the corn was in good. Roasting years [sic, ears] when it was destroyed at the Indian Towns—in this expedition the troops were all mounted and was out six weeks from the time we left home and returned home & discharged some time in the fall of the year.

And he was drafted as a militia man on the third day after he returned from the Indian Expedition to serve in the militia of South Carolina and was enrolled again in Capt. Levi Casey's company in Col. Williams' regiment in Genl. Williamson's Brigade and marched to Savannah and was there at the Siege in October in the same year & he was in the assault made upon the British at Savannah—This assault was made about Day Break & the moon gave light. He with Capt. Casey, Col. Williams' regiment & Gen. Williamson's Brigade charged on the lower side of the Town. Gen. Huger (spelled "Ugee") & Gen. Williamson commanded the South Carolina Militia—Col. Marbrey who had formerly commanded the Light Horse was in the Charge with the Militia & saw him rallying & encouraging them in the assault. In this assault Capt. McClure of Col. Williams' Regiment was mortally wounded in the shoulder. His arm was cut off & he died in a few days thereafter on this Tour the said Doyle served three months & was discharged & he again enrolled himself as a volunteer in Capt. Casey's company in 1780 in the last of May or first of June of the same year in Col. Williams' regiment under the command of Gen. Sumpter (sic, Thomas Sumter) of the South Carolina Militia. At the time of his enrolment [he] resided in ninety six District and joined Gen. Sumter at Charlotte in North Carolina and from thence went to the Battle of Rocky Mount under Gen. Sumter. On the Sabbath day some time in the summer after his enrolment but had to retreat and the next Sabbath following he was engaged in the Battle at the Hanging Rock under Gen. Sumter. Here Col. Neal of the Militia was killed—the British & Tories were here Defeated. The Tories were stationed at the Hanging Rock and when the attack was made on them the British Troops were stationed about four hundred yards from the Tories and after the Tories were defeated, the British marched to their relief and they were likewise defeated. The Tories were commanded by Col. Bryan who fled; we took about thirty prisoners—here Col. Hill, an Iron master of our party, was wounded in the Shoulder but not mortally at this Battle Major Davy (sic, Davie) commanded the Light Horse--& the said Edward Doyle. Before either of these battles with Gen. Sumter was engaged in a Battle with the Tories at Ramsour's Mills on the Waters of the Catawba in Lincoln County North Carolina. Gen. Sumter did not command in this Battle—in this Battle we Defeated the Tories in the year 1880 (sic, 1780) & took several prisoners. In this Battle he was commanded by Capt. Falls of the North Carolina Militia, but served under him about one week & returned to his captain again under Gen. Sumter & he has forgotten the commanding officers in the said last battle but the Troops were chiefly North Carolina militia—and he was in the Battle at Col. Bratton's House & defeated them & killed a British officer called Capt. Hook (sic, Huck) of the Light Horse—at this Battle Col Neal was our commander—he is the same officer that was killed afterwards at Rocky Mount in North Carolina (sic, South Carolina)—which I by mistake in this narrative said he was killed at the Hanging Rock in this action at Bratton's we took several horses, guns, swords & pistols & took thirty or forty prisoners—He was with Gen. Sumter & a number of North Carolina Militia in all amounting to five or six hundred strong & captured a British Guard with several baggage wagons five or six in number loaded with rum, provisions, store goods & camp equipment and were marching with them from South to North Carolina and at Fishing Creek between the Creek and the Catawba River about noon day—Genl. Sumter was attacked by Tarleton's Light Horse and our Troops defeated. I think this defeat was in the month of August—at the time of the attack a great many of our troops were pulling peaches & roasting ears & many of them much fatigued & lying on the ground resting—in this defeat Col. Lindsey of South Carolina was badly wounded but not mortally and after four or five days thereafter he joined a company on their march to Musgrove's Mill in ninety six District on the Enoree River and was at Said Mill engaged in a battle against the British and Tories—Col. Enis (sic, Innis) it was said Commanded the British Troops about one hundred and two hundred Tories—they were entirely Defeated. I saw fifty two dead bodies on the field of the Enemy—and among them was a British captain—it was said Col. Innis was wounded in the neck but made his escape. Our troops were commanded by Col. Williams, Col. Clark (sic, Elijah Clarke) and Col. Shelby in all about two hundred in this Battle. We had three men killed and but few wounded. This deponent was himself wounded slightly on the knuckle of the little finger of the left hand—we then took charge of the prisoners about twenty in number and after this Battle this deponent in company of several of his company returned to join Gen. Sumter again and was with him again in a Battle at the Fish Dam Ford on Broad River in the Latter part of the fall or early in the winter of the same year of his defeat; the British and Tories attacked our Troops in the night the Battle lasted about one hour we kept the Ground & they retreated—after this Battle, this deponent was discharged and went home. Some time in the early part of the winter of the year 1780 and from his last enrolment under Capt. Casey he was in service as well as he recollects seven months—until he returned home—and in all his tours under the foregoing named officers—he was mounted militiaman and the said Edward Doyle was during the year 1781 on many scouting parties—under Col. Lindsay and Col. Casey—late his captain—Levi Casey who was promoted to the Rank of Col. But was not during said last mentioned year regularly enrolled in any Captain's company but was engaged in many scouting parties under the last mentioned officers in the militia of South Carolina against the Tories and in Said scouting parties he was always a volunteer—and was a private soldier during his services as related in the foregoing declaration. That he has no documentary evidence of his services and that he knows of no person whose testimony he can procure who can testify to his service.

He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the Agency of any State.
